

WARM SPELL BRINGS BLOSSOMS AND FRUIT IN MID-NOVEMBER

Doctors, However, Look Forward to Sterner Crop From Unseasonable Weather.

The strange continuing of warm weather, to a degree unusual even in Indian summer, which made Wednesday and yesterday the warmest mid-November days in years, was still with us today. The sun, for those who were privileged to be up in time to see it, was reflected against steamy fog clouds which first blazed with red in great mottled streamers and faded away to lightest heliotrope. Physicians and undertakers, observing the general shedding of overcoats, took comfort from the certainty that sooner or later a cold snap must come with its inevitable crop of influenza and pneumonia.

The warm weather with a humidity made very high—almost like that of a greenhouse by the moisture set loose from the soil after the heavy rains of a few days ago—has caused queer things to happen to plants and trees.

Late bearing strawberries, planted in September and early October, yielded in September and early October, disappointed their growers this year because of the drought of the early summer. They are now struggling to make up by putting out white blossoms and a few gnarled half green berries. From the French school of illustration and Commercial Art comes word that an apple tree in the back yard, half dead, which has struggled since last snow to show some sign of life, has now burst into bloom. On the estate of Mr. Lee Watt of Great Neck a single rhododendron blossom popped out at dawn today.

T. R. BOOM IN KANSAS.

TOPEKA, Kan., Nov. 21.—Progressives from forty counties in State conference today cheered the statement of W. R. Staubs, former Governor, that Theodore Roosevelt was the only man who could defeat President Wilson for re-election, adopted resolutions calling for complete State, district, county and township offices in Kansas in 1914 and decided that the Progressives could better afford to lose at the next election than to amalgamate with the Republican party.

PERIL IN CANAL WATCH FOR A MAN SUCKED IN

Men Risking Their Lives at Drainage Waterway in Hope of Finding His Body.

(Special to The Evening World.) ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., Nov. 21.—A hundred men are this morning searching for beneath the city for the body of Edgley Bowers, 21, who lost his life at 9 o'clock last night when he tripped and was sucked into the million dollar drainage canal at an opening at Rhode Island and Mediterranean avenues. At each of the several goitways of the huge canal men in boats are risking their lives in the dark tunnel in the effort to locate the youth's body.

Just before 7 o'clock this morning the great pumps that force the drainage to the outlets were started. These are pushing the water toward outlets in Gardiner Basin, near the inlet, where police boats with officers armed with grappling irons are on the watch.

At a dozen of the larger manholes ladders have been lowered and men with lanterns are keeping perhaps vigil over the water below them, hoping to catch a glimpse of the boy.

CHURCH WAR ON SLIT SKIRT.

ATLANTA, Ga., Nov. 21.—All the Protestant denominations in Georgia have united in a campaign against slit skirts, diaphanous gowns, sex dramas, the tango, the bunny hug and other dances of that nature. In this campaign the churches are to be aided by the women's organizations of the State.

The Episcopal, Methodist, Baptist and Presbyterian churches named a joint committee to manage the campaign against the latest styles in dress and dances, after adopting resolutions which declare these styles to be degrading to womanhood.

NATHAN STRAUS RETIRES FROM R. H. MACY & CO.

Merchant, Improved in Health, to Devote All His Time Henceforth to Brooklyn Store.

Nathan Straus, it was announced today, will retire from the firm of R. H. Macy & Co. on Feb. 1, after which he will be identified only with the firm of Abraham & Straus of Brooklyn. A statement prepared by Jesse L. Percy, 8, and Herbert N. Straus, nephews of Nathan Straus, contained the announcement to employees of the store.

The two-eyes will continue the New York store and will transfer to the Brooklyn store. On account of ill health, Mr. Straus has been unable recently to devote much of his time to the business of the New York store. His health has improved, however, and he is again taking an active interest in business affairs. Nathan Straus has been associated with the firm of R. H. Macy & Co. since 1888, when with his brother, the late Isidor Straus, he became a partner in the firm with Charles H. Webster, who succeeded Mr. Macy.

BAD MONEY FLOODS YORKVILLE SECTION

Quarters and Halves of Lead and Glass Disconcert Shoppers and Shopkeepers

It's easy to go broke in Yorkville for some one's flooded the district with about $5,000 worth of bad half dollars and quarters. They're made out of a composition of lead and glass and if you drop them gently they give the proper ring. If you drop 'em hard, though, they'll break into pieces. Breaking a half is easier now than ever before.

The Germania Bank of Yorkville, which is at Twenty-seventh street and First avenue, discovered the bad coins early in the week and sent out notices. Nevertheless small shopkeepers have been taking them in daily until now no one who shops will accept a half or a quarter in change.

The police have no clue at all to those who have been "pushing the queer."

To Build 20 U. S. Lifeboats. WASHINGTON, Nov. 21.—The Secretary of the Treasury has awarded the contract for the construction of twenty Beebe-Mellett self-bailing power surf boats for use in the Life Saving Service to Fred C. Beebe of Greenport, N. Y., at his bid of $12,400.

Jumping at a Conclusion. (From the Chicago Record-Herald.) "Come with me this evening and I'll introduce you to the cleverest girl in town."

"Oh, I don't care to know her. Take me where I can meet a pretty one."
